To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is to recommend Doris Lew-Jensen as a great make-up artist that also has the ability to share her knowledge and skill with others.

Doris came to our campus in October of 2008, and did a workshop on the basics of doing make-up for TV and film. Her 1.5 hour session with us included make up techniques for covering blemishes, adding color, accenting features, covering imperfections, and how to create a very professional look for on-camera talent. Throughout the session she also did an outstanding job of handling a variety of questions on a variety of topics related to the techniques and the business of TV and film make up artistry.

It truly was a very beneficial session for my students, and I look forward to the prospect of bringing her back to campus. I heartily recommend Doris as an instructor or for doing demonstrations of professional make up for TV and film.

Sincerely,

Dr. Alan C. Hueth
Professor of Communication
Director, Film and TV Programs
